Sold by WEALE, Derby; RENNIE and SON, Edinburgh; BLACK WOOD, Cork; SKADDING and CO. Dublin.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"It is, however, a rather ridden system on. It shows much care and right feeling, and cannot fail to be useful. It proves whereas there is much to be done, and we cordially wish it success. . . . The plans which he gives have several merits, and are set forth in drawings to a quarter scale."—Builder, 25th of January, 1851.

"We cannot leave the work without giving it our hearty recommendation. It is no light work, but filled with sterling truths; a book deserving credit to the talent of the author. 'Architecture,' as a leader, are fond of writing, but where are there to their works are usually of a high order.' Among many with safety be classed 'Sanitary Reform.'"—Derby Mercury.

Illustrated by upwards of 1,100 Wood Engravings. By LUKE HERBERT, Civil Engineer, &c. The rapid Progress of Mechanical Science has developed many most important facts since the first publication, in 1836, of this Encyclopædia. The inventions and discoveries recently made have required the cellular alteration of the Editor; for, as the value of each was tested by experimental, a description was accordingly prepared. In the selection of new articles, and care in the revision of old ones, this edition has been most systematically carried; so that it may be received as fully and faithfully expressing "the existing state of Engineering and Mechanism, adapted to the wants of Practical Men." In two large five, volumes, cloth, lettered, price 30s.

ARCHITECTURAL PUBLICATION SOCIETY. The Committee, having received many applications relating to the publication of the CYCLOPÆDIA, and having extremely desirous that such a desirable work should be encouraged, invite the attention of Members and the Profession to the LIST OF TERMS already issued by them; they also request the communication of drawings and articles for subjects contained in that list under the letter A, and trust thus to be enabled to calculate on the early commencement of this very important undertaking.
